Subject: Real time data consultation

Just a quick note to say that as a developer, I would love to have real time train information available to build things with, whether they are just for me to use, available for free on the internet, or even to make some money. I almost certainly never will due to the artificial licensing restrictions placed on this data. This is not "open data", this is closed data. The current situation is stifling innovation and creativity in this sector.
